Watson's Victory
Muskra Income
Armour, Father and Son
Lead Poisoning
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Tom Watson of Georgia, cheerfully and easily beating his competitors, gets the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate, which means, presumably, HIS ELECTION.

Democrats may see a little beam of light when Watson, making his fight for the Senate upon bitter opposition to the War League of Nations, takes a Senatorship from the Democratic party. Watson is not a Democrat. He is a wonderfully energetic, bounding wild man, giving a good imitation of the wind as described in the Bible, and blowing where he listeth.

Good Bishop McDowell says many clergymen are getting out of the church because they cannot "keep a seakins family on a muskrat income."

Clergymen even less fortunate cannot afford to keep a muskrat family on a catkins income. In our high civilization the average woman school teacher is paid less than the man that sweeps out the corridors in a prison. And the average rich man pays less to the clergyman who looks after his soul than to the chauffeur that looks after his automobile.

Italian workers seized factories, then found they needed the bosses to direct, and especially commercial brains to make the factories profitable. Thereupon, it is alleged, they kidnaped directors and managers, planning to compel them to use their brains and direct the workers' muscles.

Interesting, if true, for it is our system of industry, for the big work you must give the big reward, otherwise you won't get it.

When Ogden Armour inherited the business from his father, P. D. Armour, he sent his family to the country. He stayed in Chicago through the Summer in his home on the South Side, went to bed early and went to "the yards" a little after 6 in the morning.

Thus he built up the little business that his father left him from a small one, and in less than a year to the recently announced profit of twenty-five millions or so. You could not have made him do that by kidnapping him, for the kidnappers wouldn't have known how to make him work.

What applies to a man increasing his income from one million to twenty-five millions applies to the smaller man. The older Armour, P. D., when young, went to earn a living in California. He wheeled a wheelbarrow eight hours to the day and got six dollars a day—big in those days, and he wheeled the wheelbarrow six hours more in the evening and got ten dollars for that. They needed wheelbarrows. That's how he got his start. You could not have made him do it by kidnapping him.

All business men understand that. The trouble is that they do not understand the fact that all men are about alike. Difference are slight, and all are alike in this.

No man does his best without a special incentive. The wage system is bad, no matter how high the wages. It is an incentive from the top of the world. They put men to work and say, "If you don't do this work for this amount you will starve." They do the work, but they don't do their best. Make labor attractive and solve your industrial problem.

Election news that told how Tom Watson, fighting the Father of Nations, took a Senatorship from the Democratic party. Drives the name story from other States. Moves, fighting the treaty, even New Hampshire.

Mr. Bach, father of the railroad bill that suited private owners of railroads so well, is to stay at home and think it over. Apparently workers were able to influence the election. The general theory is sound.

"Don't bother about the workmen. They will divide up in the old way on election day."

Painters on strike in the bicentennial. They want $10 a day. They say that they will not work at all on Saturday. Employers of painters unite in a proclamation to the effect that they won't pay the $10, and not working Saturday is propaganda.

For ordinary workers, when the world needs rebuilding, two days a week all the year around would be indeed preposterous. But the painter often sacrifices his life to his work. You may see in his eye the LIVING SKELTONS that once were painters, now straggle, and cough, and cough, and other troubles brought on by lead poisoning. If an extra holiday every week spent in the open air, will help the painter to fight the poisoning effect of his work, that extra day should not be refused him.

As for $10 a day, many would not consider that too much for a job with lead poisoning attached to it.

Fear Laura S. Fletcher, Daughter of Millionaire, May Be Suicide

Miss Laura S. Fletcher, heiress to the millions of Stoughton A. Fletcher, banker, manufacturer and horse breeder of Indianapolis, has vanished from the Summer home of the family at East Gloucester clad in a pair of overalls and with her auburn hair clipped.

The fear is expressed that she may have killed herself. The news was announced today that a white-painted dory, the property of a Mrs. Beane of East Boston, which was in the Copper Point wharf, near where the girl was last seen, had been stolen yesterday.

No disappearance in years has so baffled the authorities of New England.

With apparently no reason for wanting to leave her home or to die, a recent-year-old girl vanished under the most unusual circumstances.

Mrs. Fletcher, who is in East Gloucester, is the daughter of Stoughton A. Fletcher.

Lawrence Man Killed When Machine Hits Pole and Tree and Upsets

Seabrook, N. H., Sept. 10.—John Duffy of Lawrence, Mass., was killed and three other Lawrence men seriously injured as the climax of a midnight automobile race between Seabrook Beach and Portsmouth.

The machine in which they were riding left the State highway at Smithtown, N. H., knocked over a telephone pole, crashed into a tree and overturned.

The occupants of the rival machine drove off after giving first aid. A wagon of $50 had been placed in the race, according to the police.

Duffy was pinned under the overturned machine. He was killed instantly, according to the medical officers of Portsmouth.

The others injured were Charles McDonough, Fred Dismore and Edward A. Arundel. McDonough was taken to the Seabrook Hospital, where his injuries are not dangerous.

Arundel, who was driving the machine, was able to go to the home of Frank Bowman, the accident. It is expected that he will be arrested.

London, Sept. 10.—Mrs. Mabel MacSwiney and the blood relatives of the Lord Mayor of Cork continue their vigil at Brixton jail. They have made no effort to persuade the Lord Mayor to relinquish his political principles and take nourishment.

The suggestion was made to Mrs. MacSwiney, a sister, but she refused. Doctors declare it is impossible to say how long MacSwiney may live.

At times he appears to be dying, but rallies with unexpected displays of vitality.

The British government is now regarding part of the Irish policy and there appears little likelihood that it will change.

ALLEN CHARGES BAD AND 'SLOW' LOANS BY BANK

The Prudential Trust Company, of which former Mayor John H. H. McNamee of Cambridge is president, was closed today by order of Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen.

This action was taken, according to a statement by the bank commissioner, because the standing of the bank was impaired by steady withdrawals for several weeks, bad and slow loans.

Commissioner Allen declared that there was no indication that the Prudential had been involved in the affairs of Charles Ponzi, and that it was connected with no other bank.

He was unable to say whether or not the capital of $200,000 had been impaired.

POISON FATAL TO OLIVE THOMAS

Jack Pickford, Husband of Screen Beauty, at Her Bedside at End

Picks Dept. 10.—Olive Thomas, famous American motion picture actress, died in the American Hospital at Neully at 10 a. m. today of myocardial poisoning.

Her husband, Jack Pickford, brother of Gary Pickford, was at her bedside.

Dr. Joseph Choate, an American physician, who attended Mrs. Thomas, made a hard nut of it for her life. She died peacefully, apparently suffering neither bodily nor mental anguish.

Mrs. Thomas swallowed a solution of alcohol and bicarbonate of mercury several days ago. Her friends declared that the deadly poison had been taken by mistake and indignantly denied rumors that Mrs. Thomas had quarreled with her husband. Mrs. Thomas took the poison thinking it was a sleeping pill, they said.

SLAYER AIMED FULLER RECOGNITION TO KILL GIRL TO BE ASKED

Observing that here and there throughout the United States the Mayors of representative cities had cabled to the Prime Minister of England appeals for the life and freedom of Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, the editor of the Boston American thought it might be interesting and instructive to poll the Mayors of New England on the MacSwiney question.

The following questions, therefore, were submitted to thirty New England Mayors:

1.—If you were in Lloyd George's place what would you do with MacSwiney?

2.—What would you think of the present situation if you were Mayor of Cork?

Beverly, Mass., Springfield, Worcester, Northampton and Burlington, Vt., reported that the mayors were out of town or could not be found. Otherwise, the result of a poll of thirty mayors is as follows:

WYMOUTH FETE TO AID STORM SUFFERERS

For the relief of the tornado victims Weymouth will hold a big field day on Saturday, September 18.

The event is planned to finance the relief of the victims of the tornado which struck Weymouth on August 31, leveling houses and barns and destroying many thousands of dollars of property.

The field day will be held at the Weymouth fair grounds. The Webb Park event, which was scheduled to take place the same day at Weymouth Landing, has been postponed in favor of the relief project.

One of the big features of the field day will be the Boston American event, and a surprise is in store for everyone who attends the field day.

Weymouth's share of suffering from the tornado was greater than any of her sister towns. Nineteen estates, including the Church of St. Francis Xavier, were damaged to considerable extent, some of the houses and barns having been destroyed.

Trees were torn up, and many automobiles were wrecked and damaged.

Although local insurance companies have been slow to pay claims, the relief of the victims is the first consideration.

When the committee was first formed to develop relief for the victims of the tornado, it was the intention to hold a field day at the Weymouth fair grounds.

The fair ground management of the Weymouth fair grounds has agreed to hold the field day at the fair grounds.

What Uniformity Does for the Cord Tire User

IF anyone asked you what uniformity in tires meant, you would probably say—getting the same repeated economy tire after tire and season after season.

There you would put your finger on the most vital thing about cord tires.

Give the cord tire user uniform performance and you give him one hundred per cent of the cord principle.

Leave quality to accident and the result is different.

People will tell you that the United States Rubber Company has been making cord tires longer than anybody else. Since 1903, when one of its factories created the first automobile cord tire ever made in America.

But the outcome has gone far beyond the cord idea, great as that is in itself.

The United States Rubber Company laid down the most rigid manufacturing code that any tire has ever been submitted to.

Going into the jungles of Sumatra and developing 100,000 acres of rubber lands, which include the largest rubber planted area in the world. Starting uniformity right at nature's source.

Erecting a fabric mill devoted exclusively to cord fabric. Manned by specialized employees working with selected mechanical equipment from threshold to shipping platform. To make all U. S. Royal Cord fabric uniform.

U. S. Royal Cord Tires occupy a peculiarly separate position in today's vast tire market.

They are more sought-after than sold.

For their makers are more interested in protecting the cord idea through uniformity than they are in selling the name of a thing without its economy service.

The car owner who seeks United States standards in tubes is well paid in more mileage for his tires. U. S. Red Tubes. U. S. Grey Tubes.

LEAGUE BY COX

Promises to Present Her Case "Quickly" Says Plea to Public Opinion Fulfills

By Universal Service.
Butte, Mont., Sept. 10.—The cause of Irish independence will be presented to the League of Nations "very quickly," if he is elected and the United States enters the league, Governor James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for President, declared in a speech here.

"It would be my duty and very much my desire, as a friend of peace, asserting the friendly right of any member of the League, to declare to the authority given by article eleven, and give to Ireland, or to any other aggrieved people the opportunity to plead their case before the bar of civilized opinion."

"The peace of the world will be promoted more by harmonious feeling between the English speaking nations of the world than by anything else. Therefore, anything that disturbs it is subversive of the cause of peace. I have always believed, and do yet, that under existing conditions the aims and aspirations of Ireland cannot be presented to the bar of public opinion. Under the League of Nations it can be."

IRISH ANITY WITH U. S.
"We have four times as many people of Gaelic blood in the United States as there are in Ireland. And their natural feelings not only give to our domestic relations, but also stand like granite barriers between the two nations. Therefore, anything that disturbs it is subversive of the cause of peace. I have always believed, and do yet, that under existing conditions the aims and aspirations of Ireland cannot be presented to the bar of public opinion. Under the League of Nations it can be."

17-CENT SUGAR IN LOTS OF 100 POUNDS

Another reduction of one cent in the price of sugar, bringing it to seventeen cents a pound, in some Boston stores was recorded today. This price was only allowed, however, for 30-pound lots. While there is a great variation in the prices charged in stores, the general tendency is downward, ranging from twenty-two to eighteen cents for small lots and seventeen cents for 150 pounds or more, in certain places.

Writes 700 Liquor Orders in 4 Days

By Universal Service.
Chicago, Sept. 10.—Dr. M. H. Paas, No. 2309 West Madison, spelled the name Paas he would be running true to form, for he is the world's champion "Phonograph" writer, according to his own admissions before the prohibition authorities. When arrested, to show cause why his permit to write liquor prescriptions should not be revoked, he emphatically admitted that he had in four days written 700 prescriptions calling for liquor and in addition had "examined" each of the patients. The doctor received $1 for each prescription, each one of which took him three and a half minutes to complete.

DIVORCE SUIT IS MADE INVALID

Judge Sisk Rules Reno, Nevada, Petition in Cohen Case Is Illegal

For the second time on record a Massachusetts judge interfered with the prosecution of a divorce case in another State when Judge John J. Sisk of the Superior Court enjoined David M. Cohen of Boston from taking action in the suit he has brought against his wife in Reno, Nev.

In a bill in equity brought against her husband, Mrs. Cohen alleges that he did not go to Reno to become a bona fide resident of that city because the grounds of cruelty on which his divorce suit would not be sufficient for the successful outcome of his case if prosecuted in Boston. Until further order of the court the injunction is permanent.

The similar case recorded in Massachusetts is that of the divorce brought by Herbert Bishop of Boston in 1915 against Emma L. Bishop of Brookline. The suit had been filed in Franklin County, Maine.

Cohen charges that his wife played cards for money, that she grew pious when he refused to follow the dictates of a fortune teller, that at times she attempted to get up and get his breakfast, and that she forced him to attend an evening course at Boston University.

ITALY IS NOT IN GRIP OF SOVIET

Universal Correspondent Enters Country to Find But Little Trace of Communism

By a Special Correspondent of the London Express and Universal Service.

Turin, Italy, Sept. 10.—When I entered Italy from France, where everyone was alarmed at the report that Revolution had spread entirely over Italy I could find but few traces of Communism.

Approaching Turin I noticed several plants were flying the red flag from the chimneys. In every instance where the red flag was flying there was no sign of activity. Where there were no red flags the work was going on.

Turin is normal. The trains are running on schedule. The hospitals, however, are guarded by Carabinieri. I visited the Fiat automobile plant where the work is almost at a standstill. The only signs of unrest were workers looting at the docks and a triple guard on the prisons for fear of an attempt to liberate the prisoners.

The Westinghouse plant is strongly guarded. Calloway workers stand behind barricades of sandbags with machine guns mounted at the four corners of the buildings.

4,000 MILES IN AUTO HOUSE

Texan and His Big Family Come All the Way to Boston

William H. Little, his wife and family of six children, arrived in Boston today after a four thousand mile trip from Houston, Texas, to locate an uncle.

Little negotiated the long journey over the road, camping and living in a motor-prairie-homeser, replica of the animal-drawn vehicle which carried westward the pioneers of earlier days.

Located near at North Hill in his old home, he told his experience and desire to an American reporter, Little started May 4 from Texas. He is Massachusetts on paper. Charles H. Little was born in Rhode Island in 1844. His father was C. J. Little, who died when Charles Henry was three years old. Uncle Francis Little, Charles' eldest brother, once lived in Boston. That is all Little knows of his antecedents.

The family branch, which located in Texas, communicated at occasional intervals with the Little branch of Massachusetts. These letters long ago passed out of existence. The last letter known of as coming from Uncle Francis was in 1909, and that letter was from Boston.

The motor which has housed the Littles on their long journey is five feet by nine inches by nine feet nine inches.

"Every day people come and stop to look at the wagon," said Little. "It is as attractive as a showboat. But there were several people at least in the crowd who watched us locate."

In the door of his vehicle, Little said that the entire handling of the family could be easily done when concentrated. It certainly eliminates undesirable housekeeping, care for Mr. Little.

The car contains a complete cooking outfit in which all the meals for the six Littles, who range in age from three years to sixteen years, can be prepared.

The tanks are arranged so they can be dismantled in the morning and pitched, when discarded, announce the day's work in searching for "Uncle" is at an end.

ITALIANS PLAN TO HOLD PARADE COLUMBUS DAY

Greater Boston Italian will celebrate Columbus Day with a parade and mass meeting, according to plans made at a meeting of representatives of the various Italian societies. It is expected that 150 societies will be represented in the parade, which will be followed by a meeting at the Parkman bandstand, Boston Common. GERMANY REPUDIATES TERMS OF TREATY, SAYS CRAVATH

CALL PACT VIOLATION OF ARMISTICE AGREEMENT

By PAUL D. CRAVATH.
(Leader of the New York Bar)

I have been asked to make public a summary of the answers to a series of questions regarding my impressions of conditions in Germany that I recently gave to a small group of friends.

A correct and sounding of Germany's problems is essential to the working out of any program for the economic regeneration of Europe.

I told a small group of friends that I had seen the situation of the leadership of Germany in the hands of a few men, and that these men were not only not capable of leading the people, but were also not capable of leading the army.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the army, but were also not capable of leading the navy.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the navy, but were also not capable of leading the air force.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the air force, but were also not capable of leading the police.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the police, but were also not capable of leading the courts.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the courts, but were also not capable of leading the schools.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the schools, but were also not capable of leading the churches.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the churches, but were also not capable of leading the press.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the press, but were also not capable of leading the radio.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the radio, but were also not capable of leading the telephone.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the telephone, but were also not capable of leading the mail.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the mail, but were also not capable of leading the post office.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the post office, but were also not capable of leading the customs.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the customs, but were also not capable of leading the treasury.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the treasury, but were also not capable of leading the finance.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the finance, but were also not capable of leading the economy.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the economy, but were also not capable of leading the industry.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the industry, but were also not capable of leading the commerce.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the commerce, but were also not capable of leading the agriculture.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the agriculture, but were also not capable of leading the stock market.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the stock market, but were also not capable of leading the bond market.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the bond market, but were also not capable of leading the foreign exchange.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the foreign exchange, but were also not capable of leading the international trade.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the international trade, but were also not capable of leading the world economy.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the world economy, but were also not capable of leading the world peace.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the world peace, but were also not capable of leading the world order.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the world order, but were also not capable of leading the world civilization.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the world civilization, but were also not capable of leading the world progress.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the world progress, but were also not capable of leading the world future.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the world future, but were also not capable of leading the world destiny.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the world destiny, but were also not capable of leading the world fate.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the world fate, but were also not capable of leading the world fortune.

I told them that the German people were not only not capable of leading the world fortune, but were also not capable of leading the world luck.

The increase in the cost of food is wholly out of proportion to the increase in income. The shortage of food is, therefore, especially acute among the people of fixed but limited income, such as the small retailers, teachers, government officials, professional men, former army officers, and students.

We are as proud of these remarkable new suits and coats at $35 as of the beauties at $300

A boy's raincoat seems a little thing!

But we are sure it is a big thing to the mother who wants to preserve her young son's health on a stormy day. And it is a big thing to help in the business of keeping young folks well.

The section chief in charge of the Filene Boys' Shops has been burning the midnight oil seeking ways and means of making a better raincoat for boys, raincoats good enough to last the Tom Brown name.

He found for instance that boys perspire a good deal between the shoulders, so he had an extra thin piece of rubber and cloth put there. And he put the best rubber into this coat; and he made the hat as good as the coat—and that's enough to say of any hat!

And all in all, he produced a better raincoat and one worthy of Tom Brown traditions. In doing all of which he was carrying out his duty as a Filene section chief—

Said duty being—"Filene better values," which boiled down means something better for those who shop Filene-wise!

NAVY YARD WORKER INJURED BY FALL

A worker at the Navy Yard was injured by a fall from a height of about 100 feet.

Wide silk bands—bows in back

"They came to me and I helped them out"

MONTHS ago I knew they were coming and I waited for them. I figured that many of the more eminent makers of high priced hats were riding for a fall. I figured that with prices on the decline, the retail trade would not pay the high prices these high and mighty hat manufacturers were asking.

These high class hat makers figured the dealers would have to pay their prices. But they figured wrong, for the retailers bought lower priced hats from lower grade makers. The result—

When the retail hat buying season was about over for the fall, these makers found they didn't have enough orders to keep their plants going.

Then they rushed to me. They knew I hadn't placed an order for my 50 stores. They just had to have orders to keep their plants running, utilize their raw materials, pay their overhead and retain their skilled labor.

I gave them orders—all they wanted of them—but at my prices.

And now, I take great pride in offering the most remarkable values in the history of hat retailing. A wonderful assortment of genuine

$6 and $8 Hats All at one price 4³⁵

These are by far the finest felts that ever entered my stores. They're the quality you'll find only at the highest priced and most exclusive hatters. There's regular $6 and $8 hats from every standpoint. There's no mistaking that fact.

Mark this well—they're finished with those rich wide silk bands, with bows in the back, that every smart dresser will insist on this fall—and which you will find nowhere else at less than $6 and $8. Full leather sweatbands, of course, and brims bound, welled or raw edge, as you prefer.

There are more good styles than you'll find anywhere. Everything that's new and smart and becoming. Every color and shade endorsed by Fashion. Every size and style of block to meet the varying demands of different types of faces.

My windows tell the story. Go to the Kaufman Shop—even if it takes you a few moments out of your way. My windows will show you genuine $6 and $8 Felts, both stiff and soft, at one price, $4.35.

Our foreign agencies in London, Amsterdam and Paris, established in 1876, report steadily increasing diamond prices. They are becoming more difficult to obtain every month. From our latest importation we have selected the following diamonds—and mounted them in various styles: Ladies' and Men's 14K gold and platinum settings.

BOSTON AMERICAN

Fred St. Onge, nationally known bicycle rider, will be official pace-maker, riding his old high wheel or "ordinary" as it was known thirty-five years ago, before the present bicycles came into being. All the old-timers will follow directly behind the leader and they will be on their high wheels.

Racing is strictly forbidden and it will be absolutely safe for little boys and girls to join in the run. This run is promoted by the Boston American for the purpose of health and pleasure.

The run will be from Copley square to Chestnut Hill reservoir and return. Six high-grade bicycles valued at $70 each will be awarded by judges for meritorious riding during the six miles run as follows:

- To the boy under fifteen years who shows the best form in riding a bicycle will be awarded.
- Another bicycle will be presented to the girl under fifteen who is picked by the judges upon the same basis.
- A third bicycle will be given to the male rider over fifteen whose form is considered the best.
- Another bicycle will be awarded to the girl or woman over fifteen who passes the same test most successfully.
- A fifth bicycle will be awarded to the boy or girl under eighteen years who gives the best exhibition of trick riding at the reservoir in the presence of the assembled throng.
- A sixth bicycle will be given to the old-timer on a high wheel showing the best form.

The Reason Why

THE REASON why I decided to sell $5 hats for $3.85 and do business without profit this Fall is a simple, straightforward business proposition.

I haven't anything up my sleeve—there's no Joker in the pack—there's no mystery about my policy, it's simple as A. B. C.

Conditions in this country have changed since I started last Spring to make hats for this Fall. At that time I couldn't see the end of high prices—but now I can see the finish.

This Fall the Public won't listen to any explanation why any article of merchandise costs more. They won't buy and pay more, and I want MORE business. That's the reason in a nutshell why I'm not charging any more.

My hats were not made to sell at $3.85. They were built to sell at $5, and a peek in the other windows will convince you they represent unusual value at $5.

I could have started the season with a $5 price and when the first rush was over announced a drop when the market broke—but I'd rather have 100,000 new Customers than 100,000 new Dollars.

When this period of readjustment is over, and Prices and Profits are normal, every merchant will have to get out and hustle for business, and no one will accuse me at that time of being a philanthropist today because I'm willing to pay the price and get 100,000 new customers now.

They're all one Price $3.85

"I'll tell you one bit. The war it's a damned thing. When they burned old Diederich they said this was the name of your quiet and quiet and home is quiet."

"Homer's Rest!" You, in the first, write before the Revolution the Forest Runners could find food and shelter here. The alone for defense. It and it was never burned."

There was a long silence. The delicately fresh odor of gray life became more apparent—a perfume that, somehow, Claret associated with Stephen.

Claret said in a pleasant, listless voice:

"You are a happy man, Claret."

"Here, under the foliage of your fatherhood," mused Claret aloud, "you should not consider that the honey of an honorable life lies secure in your keeping."

"I don't know how honorable that work. But I've never heard of any actual criminals among them."

"That's a great deal!" He dropped one lean, well-shaped hand on the arm of his chair. The cigarette burned between his perfect fingers, spitting the air with its aromatic mist.

"It's a great deal to have a clean family record," he said again. "It's the greatest thing in the world—the most desirable."

The other makes extensive suppositions.

"You mean dishonest?"

"Yes. The stain spreads. You can't stop it. It taints the generations that follow. They can't escape."

"That's nonsense," said Claret. "Because a man had a crack for a felony is not a crack himself."

"No, but the stain is in the heart and blood."

"That's morbid."

But, Claret, there are people whose most intense desire is to be respectable. It is a ruling passion, inherent, uncounting vital to their happiness and peace of mind. Did you know that?"

"I suppose I can imagine such a person."

"I suppose such a person is not normal. In them, but pride is more serious than a wound of the flesh. And pride, mortally wounded, means to their mental and bodily physical death."

"Such a person is abnormal and predestined to unhappiness," said Claret. "I suppose so."

"Predestined," repeated Claret in his pleasant even voice. "There's something wrong with them. But they are born so. Nobody knows what a moral hell they are."

CLAIM MISTAKE FATAL

TO RULE BY PRISONERS

Characterizing the recent failure of the new form of prison government at Deer Island House of Correction, established in the so-called "Prison Association" among the inmates, as extremely regrettable, the Massachusetts Prison Association is of the belief that its temporary suspension is not due to the defect in the system itself but that certain mistakes were made in its carrying out, which were fatal to its continued success.

The Prison Association has had a keen interest in the progress of this experiment, which was undertaken about a year and a half ago, and has published a pamphlet entitled "Prison Education," by Henry A. Higgins, deputy commissioner of correction of Massachusetts, describing the inception and development of the idea.
